COLLEGE PROGRESS REPORT March 1974/Volume 27, Number 3

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

SOME USES OF ADVERSITY

For over twenty years higher education has operated with the concept that growth would continue indefinitely. Everything would get better and better. All we had to do was follow situational ethics and ride with the tide. For example, as student population grew it became very easy for colleges to borrow government money to build. Unfortunately, most colleges did not sufficiently analyze the total long-range repercussions of adding more space. The students were there, the money was at least partially there, so the new dorms, classrooms, and other facilities were built.

Historically, times of prosperity have not often nurtured achievements and traditions which have influenced mankind's development. It seems that adversity often not only kindles its own remedy but in the process develops ideas and tools which have lasting effects. Our own country is a prime example of determination in the face of adversity producing growth.

When the going gets rough in our imperfect world, we can either acquiesce and retreat or do our best to adapt and remedy the situation.

Many are prophesying the demise of private educational institutions, particularly the small liberal arts colleges. At the extreme they hold that eventually economics will certainly overshadow all other factors involved; the only question is how long will it take for a particular college to die.

Not surprisingly, our contention at Lycoming is that such a fate is not inevitable. We feel that small, private, liberal arts colleges have unique contributions to offer which can not be transferred to large or public institutions. Certain students--and society--need us.

My purpose in this column is not to reiterate what has been said in other publications about Lycoming's mission. Rather, I wish to express our appreciation for the support our efforts have received which is so evident in the following pages. And I want to assure you that we of the faculty and administration will lend every effort to meet effectively the challenges which these adverse factors present and to use them as prods toward clearer definition of our direction. We shall make this time one of deliberate choice and not acquiescence.

Much is still positive. We sincerely trust that you who have supported our efforts in the past will not only continue your participation but will encourage others to join us.

HAROLD H. HUTSON
President of the College

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY TWO FOR ONE GIVING INCREASINGLY IMPORTANT

While direct gifts from business and industry are increasingly difficult to obtain, matching gifts from these same sources are growing. However, a vital factor in keeping the two changes proportionate is the original gift by the employee--to make the employer's matching gift possible.

Figures for the last three years at Lycoming will illustrate the problem. Though more requests were made each year, direct gifts from business and industry have declined from $79,506 in 1971, to $69,424 in 1972, to $47,085 in 1973. Matching gifts have fluctuated from $1,755 in 1971, to $1,045 in 1972, to $3,385 in 1973.

If you work for one of the 500+ matching-gift firms, be sure to get gift forms and instructions from your personnel office and double your gift. Thirty-three contributors did in 1973.

OLDEST AND NEWEST CLASSES PARTICIPATE TO GREATEST DEGREE

A number of interesting observations about alumni giving at Lycoming were uncovered when the figures for alumni giving on page six were analyzed.

A most interesting fact is that alumni at the two ends of the spectrum participate to the same degree--twenty-four percent of the 544 Dickinson Seminary graduates now on the rolls support the College through annual giving or restricted gifts while 24.1% of the 1,144 graduates from 1970 on give. This compares to eleven percent participation from the 1,238 Dickinson Junior College graduates and 12.2% contributing from the 4,395 graduates of the first twenty-one Lycoming College classes.

A nucleus of the new classes (from 7 to 9%) starts giving the very fall after they graduate--without being solicited. The first year each class has been solicited they were at the top or second in percentage of participation within the four-year classes (Class of 1970 first in 1971 at 31%, Class of 1971 second in 1972 at 26%, and Class of 1972 first in 1973 at 30%--each in their first year solicited). Each class has followed up in its subsequent years at a 28 to 29% level. Actually, the 1973 average for classes since 1970 is lowered to 24% by the unsolicited participation of the Class of 1973.

Another interesting fact is that graduates of the Junior College again lead all alumni in average-gift at $169.61 and help make the general alumni average-gift $55.14 for 1974. Dickinson Seminary graduates also help to boost the general alumni average with a $63.74 average-gift, while the first twenty-one of the four-year classes average $42.65, and classes since 1970 average $17.67.

DEAN'S LIST,

GENTLEMAN --

RICHARD B. HENNINGER '74.

Rich Henninger, Lycoming's brilliant 6-5 senior basketball captain, concluded an outstanding four-year intercollegiate career by leading the Warriors to the regular season title of the Northern Division, Middle Atlantic Conference, with an 8-2 record.

But it was a bitter disappointment to the dedicated Henninger when the Warriors, in his last intercollegiate game, failed to also add the conference playoff championship by losing to Albright for a 14-9 overall record. Lycoming had entered the finals by beating Elizabethtown in the preliminary round of the playoffs.

If the pain of defeat was intense after the Albright game, the hurt should have been greatly reduced if Rich had reflected about the many school records he established and the honors acquired in a fabulous four-year career.

The challenge of the old sports cliché that records are made to be broken was accepted as a freshman by Henninger and along the way he set numerous single game, season, and career marks. But it was the school career record surpassed during the just concluded season that will probably stand the onslaught of future Warriors for many years.

When Rich stepped to the foul line at Alfred University on the night of January 16, 1974, and calmly converted two free throws, the first tied Vince Leta's former all-time record of 1,880. The second established a new mark of 1,881. Henninger, who hit 25 points in the Alfred contest, continued to score at an average pace of 25 in the remaining games to set the new record of 2,203 in the season finale at Albright.

Other marks behind Henninger's name in the school record book include a 17 for 17

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

While studying the material for this issue I began to wonder how the figures would extrapolate if all alumni supported the institution to the same degree as the old-timers and the youngsters (page 1).

If you can find any way to do anything at all to help your alma mater during this financial squeeze, believe me it can help. If only twenty-four percent of Lycoming's alumni gave at the $17.67 average-gift level of the new graduates, who certainly have it no easier than any of us, the 681 more donors would provide an additional $12,000. If thirty percent contributed the same average $17.67, over $18,000 would be added by 1,018 more donors.

The example set by the Junior College graduates and those of the classes since 1970 indicates that a realistic goal for alumni to consider for 1974 would be between 1,700 and 2,100 contributors providing $72,000 to $78,000.

Give what you can when you can. The results are often astounding as our newest alumni can testify.

free-throw performance in one game for the best effort in that department; most field goals in one game, 18; most field goals in season, 243; most field goals, career, 912, and most rebounds, career, 804. He probably set two other career records that could not be confirmed because some school record books lack complete statistics. They include the 87 games he started in four years and his field goal accuracy mark of .524. College players seldom achieve a 50 percent shooting average. His best season mark came this year when he hit 54 percent from the field.

Rich has been the MAC scoring champion for the last three years and has been among the top 20 scorers in the nation during the same three years. His total of 503 points and 23 per game average as a freshman was followed in successive years with marks of 560, 26.6; 568, 24.7, and 572, 24.9 this year.

Henninger began receiving individual honors for performance on the basketball floor as a freshman, and the awards continued to increase over the years. They include such prestigious citations as Academic All-America; National Association of Basketball Coaches District II All-America; Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference All-East; Middle Atlantic Conference All-Stars, and AP All-State. He was named either to the All-Star team or the most outstanding player in five tournaments in which the Warriors participated during his career and he was recipient of the Lycoming Tomahawk Award as the outstanding Warrior athlete for the last two years. Several more honors are likely to be added to the imposing list after all 1974 post season awards have been announced.

Henninger's ability is not confined to the basketball court. He is an excellent student and has been consistently on the dean's list. His future plans include graduate school and then into the field of education as either a teacher or administrator and possibly coach. Those who have been associated with the quiet-spoken Henninger during his four years at Lycoming agree that he will probably be as successful in his chosen profession as he was on the basketball court.

There is also something else on which everyone agrees. Coach Dutch Burch will have a tremendously difficult task trying to fill Henninger's spot in the lineup when the 1974-75 season arrives.

PROMOTIONS AND TENURE GRANTED

THREE FACULTY PROMOTIONS were announced recently by President Hutson, to Professor from Associate Professor John C. Hollenback and O. Thompson Rhodes and from Assistant to Associate Professor John F. Piper, Jr.

PROFESSOR HOLLENBACK, chairman of business administration and marshal of the college, came back to his alma mater in 1952 after graduating from Williamsport Dickinson Junior College in 1947. He is a University of Pennsylvania graduate where he received his bachelor of science and master of business administration from the Wharton School.

DR. RHODES has been on the religion department faculty since 1961. The Evanston, Illinois native earned a bachelor of science in aeronautical engineering from the University of Cincinnati. He received his bachelor of divinity degree and doctor of philosophy degree in the philosophy of religion from Drew University.

DR. PIPER came to Lycoming's history department in 1969. He received his bachelor of arts from Lafayette College and a bachelor of divinity from Yale Divinity School. He earned a doctor of philosophy from Duke University.

TENURE has been granted to three faculty members effective September 1, 1974. DR. DAN D. GUSTAFSON, associate professor and chairman of English, joined here in 1971. He received a bachelor of arts from Amherst College, a master of arts from the University of California, and his doctor of philosophy from the University of Nebraska.

DR. PAUL A. MACKENZIE, assistant professor of German, at Lycoming since 1970, earned his bachelor and master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from Boston University.

DR. K. BRUCE SHERBINE, assistant professor of biology who came here in 1969, received a bachelor of science from Gettysburg, his master of science at Temple, and a doctor of philosophy from the Pennsylvania State University.
